

CELEBRATING STYLE AND SUBSTANCE

From its first French edition in 1937, Marie Claire has been a magazine that writes about high-end fashion and beauty in a serious way, combining it with journalistic reports on often foreign issues. I therefore felt it was important to underline that special DNA more. We launched the slogan Celebrating style and substance and divided the magazine into two large chapters with this name. Substance covers the reports, interviews and culture pages, Style highlights the best of what the fashion, beauty and lifestyle world has to offer. A matching new layout ensures that no one can look past our unique twofold.

Editor-in-chief, Timon Van Mechelen

Timon Van Mechelen's first issue was the September 2022 magazine.
